ted with Secretary Christian until he met the President.
Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce was the second caller. He conferred with President Harding for nearly a half an hour.
Secretary Christian held a conference with the newspaper men at 10:30 o'clock. He said that the bulk of the mail today contained congratulations. The President will meet the Republican National Committee at 3 p.
"There will be few changes," said Mr. Christian, referring to the possibility of the reported "sweeping clean" of the staff of employees left by the outgoing administration. He said that there would be only two or three "major" changes.
After the conference Mr. Christian and the newspaper men posed for the photographers.

GATES WIDE OPEN.
The most striking evidence that there has been a new deal in Washington was seen at the White House. Pedestrians passing along Pennsylvania avenue stopped and gazed curiously at the open gates. Gone were the uniformed policemen that for the last four years have perched in their little sentry boxes by the gates and barred all those who sought admission. The iron gates were swung inward and unguarded. The beautiful grounds, just now exhibiting the first faint flushes of spring, were likewise unguarded except for the casual public domain.
Inaugural visitors, who still thronged the Capital in considerable numbers today, strolled through the open gates about the grounds as they will. It was a fresh and unusual sight for Washington.

CONFERENCES PLANNED.
Starting next week there will be an almost solid month of conferring and planning between Republican leaders, now in control of all branches of government for the first time in eight years.

The special session of the new Congress will not be called until the executive and legislative branches of the Government can formulate a program of action on which to start working. During the next few weeks President Harding will have almost constant conferences with leaders of the House and Senate, and when these have developed something tangible, he will issue a call for a special session. If things go smoothly the Sixty-seventh Congress will convene April 4.
More pressing than the legislative program in its demand for immediate action is the task confronting the new President of making a number

Two Studies in Expression

CARL T. THONER

President Harding and former President Wilson caught by Thoner's camera as they left the White House yesterday.

President Harding, obviously tired from days of travel, dozens of conferences, and scores of perplexing problems, deeply moved by the great event about to take place, smiles through his weariness. Mr. Wilson is photographed for the first time in eighteen months with a semblance of a smile. There is clearly an expression of relief—that of a sick and careworn man relieved of a heavy burden.

Of highly important appointments. The most urgent of these are some ambassadors, the creation of an entirely new Shipping Board of seven members, and the filling of four vacancies on the Interstate Commerce Commission.
Officially, there was no Shipping Board today. The board died a natural death at noon March 4. President Harding has managed, despite his Cabinet difficulties, to give considerable consideration to these appointments for the last four weeks, and is believed to have already tentatively selected most of the members. George Chamberlain, of Oregon, a Democrat who retired yesterday as Senator, is one of them.

BUTLER MAY GET JOB.
One of the first diplomatic appointments expected to be announced by the White House is that of Ambassador to Great Britain. Ambassador Davis is soon to sail for home, leaving American representation in the care of a charge d'affaires. President Harding is understood to have a number of men under consideration for this post, not the least of whom is Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, and a candidate for the nomination at Chicago. Gossip also has linked the name of George Harvey with the appointment.

President Harding took with him into the White House a veritable deluge of recommendations concerning these appointments. They come from every conceivable source and concern every conceivable job. The task of plowing through these presents in itself a task of no small proportions.

martyrs are washed and swept by the same ceaseless tides; the mystery of death remains the unsolved problem of all time. The shepherd who three thousand years ago upon the plains of Syria observed the procession of the planets and contemplated the decrees of fate was as wise perhaps as the wisest of today. He only knew that, standing here upon the bank of time, his straining eyes could not glimpse even the shadowy outline of the farther shore.

BEARS GREAT LEGACY.
"Measured by that standard, he who sleeps today bears with him to the tomb a legacy so rare even envy is compelled to pay the tribute of admiration. His long life was devoted to the service of the public weal. Upon his country's altar he placed the whole wealth of his magnificent talent, the seal of youth, the energy of middle life, the wisdom of old age.
"With the cost. His character rested upon a foundation laid deep in human love. He will live because his works will live.
"He lives because he helped defend and keep secure the Constitution that preserves our rights. He lives in the Declaration of Independence, whose principles he nurtured with a tender and fearless affection. He lives because he has helped liberty to live. Men who so live will never die. In ever widening circles his influence will be felt. And deeper and yet deeper the tender love the people of his State have borne for him will sink into their hearts.

"As time runs on and the historian surveys the picture of these troubled times, there will arise in it no figure more heroic than the rugged form that lies so still today.
"He was the best beloved of Americans."

The funeral services were as simple and unostentatious as had been his man and his life. There was a prayer for the dead by the Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the House, songs by a quartet, the eulogies, other songs by the quartet, and then the benediction by the Rev. Earl Willey, of Missouri, from Champ Clark's own Missouri.
The casket was brought into the house chamber early this morning and placed in front of the Speaker's desk, where Mr. Clark had presided eight years. It was covered with a pall of amaranth, carnations, violets, and orchids. In front of the casket was laid a large wreath of cala lilies, based on a casket from President and Mrs. Harding. Among the large wreaths were those from Missouri members of the 66th and 67th Congresses.
Other wreaths were from Senator and Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, the Texas delegation, former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, and George H. White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The Democratic National Committee also sent a large basket of flowers.

FLORAL TRIBUTES

Other floral tributes were from the Congressional Club and from the House of Representatives as a body. From early this morning the casket containing the remains stood in the hall of the House. Its attendants were eight Capitol policemen, who acted as pallbearers. This afternoon it was removed to Union Station, where it was placed on the special train to carry it and the great Congressional funeral cortege to Bowling Green, Mo., where final interment is to be made. At St. Louis the body will lie in state tomorrow afternoon.

The funeral services in the House began this morning at 10:30. The order of march into the House was: The President and his Cabinet, the Vice President and former Vice President, the Speaker and former Speaker, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the Diplomatic Corps, the members of the House of Representatives, the Chief of Naval Operations, Gen. John J. Pershing, the Joint House and Senate committee on arrangements for the funeral, Speaker Gillett, of the House, presided.

THOUSANDS TURNED AWAY.
Admission to the funeral ceremonies was by card. Thousands were turned away because of lack of room. The people of Washington to whom former Speaker Clark was known and beloved, crowded to pay their last tribute. Visitors to Washington for the services of the public weal, from place to place to view the services. The crowd overflowed to the open and a mass of people lined the route from the Capitol to Union Station as the funeral cortege moved.

A special train is carrying the funeral party to Missouri. Forty-four members of the House, nearly half as many members of the Senate, and many members of the former Speaker's family and close personal friends are accompanying the body on its last journey.
The funeral car was laden with the floral tributes that came from friends in all stations of life, from the President and the White House gardener, the Speaker of the House, the pages who serve the members of the House, and the charwomen and the janitors at the Capitol.

ARNSTEIN'S SECOND TRIAL BEGINS SOON

Will Be Arraigned With His Three Co-Defendants on March 14.

Julius W. ("Nicky") Arnstein and three Washingtonians, indicted on charges of having negotiated in Washington some of the $5,000,000 worth of securities stolen from Wall Street, New York, messengers, will be brought to trial on March 14 before Justice Gould and a jury in the District Supreme Court.

Arnstein, David W. Sullivan, Norman S. Bowles, and Wilton W. Easterday, were released on bonds two months ago after a jury which had them on trial had disagreed. Assistant United States District Attorney Paul B. Cromelin will prosecute Arnstein and his co-defendants, while T. Morris Wampler will represent Sullivan, Bowles and Easterday.

Monster Plane Damaged.
ROME, March 5.—The great Caproni hydroplane which was constructed at Sesto Calende for trans-Atlantic flights, has been seriously damaged in a trial flight, said a dispatch from Sesto Calende today. One of the wings had broken off during a trans-Atlantic flight.

ANTI-REDS RISE AGAINST LENIN

Bolsheviks Menaced at Many Points as "Whites" Organize
Russian Revolt.

LONDON, March 5.—The most dangerous counter revolutionary movement against the Russian Soviet Government since its creation more than three years ago is under way and is spreading, according to advices received here today.
All railway traffic west of Moscow has been suspended, said a dispatch to the Daily Express.
The Russo-Rumanian frontier has been closed, owing to an anti-Bolshevik uprising at Odessa.
Whites have joined the revolt at Petrograd.
Gen. Semenov with 25,000 anti-Bolshevik cossacks is reported advancing through Siberia.

LONDON, March 5.—The anti-Bolshevik revolution in Russia is reported to be gaining in strength, according to advices received by the Daily Express from various sources today.
The Bolshevik diplomatic representatives at Reval and elsewhere in the Baltic states have been deeply distressed at the trend of events in Russia.
Boris, Litvinoff, head of the Russian delegation at Reval, the chief doorway through which Russian communications with the outside world, has asked for protection by the Estonian government, and the red flag has been removed from the Russian legation.
The following radiogram was received from Kronstadt, the chief fortress defending Petrograd on the sea side:
"Power has passed into the hands of a temporary revolutionary committee headed by General Kozlovsky, to whom both the fleet and garrison are loyal. A call has been issued to all the whites in Russia to join the present movement."

According to advices from Riga, the counter revolution is pursuing lines similar to those which resulted in the overthrow of the Romanoffs.
The Bolsheviks at Petrograd, assisted by soldiers and sailors and battalions, have captured all of the right bank of the Neva, as well as all of the important railway stations. Among the ships that went over to the insurgents was the cruiser Petrovskoy.

REBELS NEARLY DEFEATED.
The rebels at Petrograd were nearly defeated at one juncture. At the critical moment a number of Red troops went over to them, however.
The Soviet commander called up reserves from Pskov, Luga, Yamburg, and other places and is massing them on the outskirts of Petrograd.
"The counter revolution is completely organized," said a Riga dispatch to the Daily Express. "Reactionary cries of 'down with the reds' are heard everywhere. The railway men are leading the uprising. A feverish attack is being organized against the Kremlin, the headquarters of the Soviet. The Kremlin is guarded by a Communist international legion.
"The Soviet Union is in a state of anarchy. The reactionaries are spreading to other towns. The workmen, soldiers, and sailors have struck a blow for political freedom and for free individual trade instead of state control by the government. The fighting broke out on a big scale when Lenin tried to suppress an outbreak with naval cadets."

The Russian rebels at Petrograd have been ordered to release all Soviet demanding the release of all imprisoned insurgents," said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen this afternoon.

NEW CABINET MEN SWORN INTO OFFICE

sworn in at 11 o'clock this morning, the oath being administered by Samuel Gompers, Jr., chief clerk of the Department of Labor.
The ceremony was witnessed by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, Mayor Hancock, of Pittsburgh, and a delegation of Moose from Philadelphia and Canton, Ohio. At the same time E. J. Henning, of San Diego, a lawyer, was sworn in as Assistant Secretary of Labor.

HAYS ASSUMES DUTIES.
Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will take oath of office as Postmaster General this afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to a program of the ceremonies announced this morning.

The oath will be administered by Justice Willis Van Devanter, of the United States Supreme Court, who has a close friend of the Hays family. The ceremonies will take place in the large reception room of the Postmaster General's office and will be witnessed by Albert S. Burleson, the retiring Postmaster General, and administrative officers of the department and friends.
While it is understood that Mr. Hays has completed his slate of appointments, no public announcement has been made until after he assumes his new duties. There has been considerable speculation as to the new assistant postmasters, and it is generally believed he will name William H. Moore, the present district attorney, as his chief clerk. Mr. Moore is a Republican and has been connected with the department for about twenty years.
The exception of the higher administrative offices, it is thought the new Postmaster General will not make any radical changes in personnel. He has taken a liberal view in this respect, and has decided to retain a number of minor officials under the Burleson administration.
Ruskin McArdle, who has been Mr. Burleson's chief clerk during his entire administration, is preparing to leave the post. Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace took the oath of office at 11:25 this morning. He was sworn in by R. M. Reese, chief clerk of the Department, in the presence of all of the bureau chiefs.

THIS photograph was taken just at the moment that President Harding, his right hand raised, took the oath of office.

Mrs. Harding Center Of Brilliant Women In Present Regime

By RUTH ELEANOR JONES.

A President was inaugurated yesterday whom the women of the country helped to elect. And next to the man who will guide the destinies of the nation for the next four years, the most important person to the throngs of spectators seemed to be the woman who will preside as mistress of the White House.

The entrance of Mrs. Warren G. Harding to the gallery of the Senate Chamber, where Vice President Coolidge was sworn in, was the signal for a round of applause which was repeated with augmented enthusiasm when she appeared in the little stand where the President took the oath of office. Surrounded by members of her family and Mr. Harding's, she was seated in the second row of the executive gallery in the Senate—the "Presidential pew" in front was left vacant—with Mrs. Coolidge and members of the Vice President's party occupying the adjoining benches.

CABINET WIVES TOGETHER.
The wives of the incoming Cabinet members were grouped together to save for Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, who got lost and finally achieved a seat in the Senators' gallery—dividing interest with the Presidential party. The chief of every brother Commissioner accredited to Washington was on the floor of the Senate, the picturesque and colorful uniforms which they don for such a ceremony striking a brilliant note of color.

The wives of the diplomatic gallery, wives of Senators and Members of the House, members of the outgoing Administration, the governors of a dozen states, leaders of visitors from other cities crowded the social world and distinguished the Senate galleries, the whole brilliant assemblage adjourning afterward to the square before the Capitol to mingle in democratic fashion with the throngs of people gathered there to witness this historic event.

Three women were on the floor of the Senate: Miss Mabel Boardman, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, who with her brother, Commissioner, Mrs. Alice Robertson, the new "Gentleman from Oklahoma," and Mrs. Schall, wife of the blind Congressman from Minnesota, who has the privilege of accompanying her husband.

"What a well-dressed Administration!" was the exclamation heard from the womenfolk on every side, commenting not only on the little groups of womenfolk and the members of his Cabinet, but upon the assemblage gathered together to do honor to the new officials. "Such wonderful furs! Such jewels! Such lovely hats! So extravagantly dressed the new First Lady of the Land was beautifully turned out and presented a most dignified and attractive picture."

MRS. HARDING'S GOWN.
Mrs. Harding wore the gown of deep blue charmeuse embroidered with white beads. She wore her inaugural costume and topped it with a medium sized hat of black horsehair braid, with a thick upstanding row of clipped aigrets about the crown. The hat, which was decorated with a moderately high crown, was posed low on her head and may be described as a modified sailor shape, with a becoming roll. The bodice of her gown was of square and quite low in the neck, and outlined with a collar in which pale gray and blue shade lighter than the satin were mingled. The skirt was perhaps seven inches from the floor—neither noticeably short nor long—and the head motifs which appeared on the bodice were repeated near the hem. A sash of the charmeuse, tied loosely in the back, was also decorated with steel beads. Long white gloves met the sleeves of charmeuse. Mrs. Harding wore a short string of pearls and the black velvet band with diamond slides about her throat which she so often affects.

On an entering she donned a wide coat of broadtail, with a wide square cut collar of chinchilla reaching to the waist line.
SISTERS BEAUTIFULLY DRESSED.
Miss Abigail Harding, who sat next Mrs. Harding in the gallery, wore a French blue gown of the same color, colored in opossum. A transparent blue picture hat wreathed in French flowers and a corsage bouquet of orchids completed her costume. Mrs. E. W. Russell, another sister of President Harding, had on a dark colored coat suit, with a small henna hat. Others with Mrs. Harding were her father-in-law, Dr. George H. Harding, Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Harding, Jr., with their children and Mrs. Harding's niece, Mrs. Frank Longshore.

The two Coolidge boys, John and Calvin, Jr., who were with Mrs. Coolidge, were viewed with friendly interest, and the spectators were much amused by the evident boredom of John—the one who looks like his father. Mrs. Coolidge's gown was of navy blue charmeuse, with the entire top fashioned of blue brocade crepe over henna. She kept it covered, however, with a dark blue cloth wrap and wore a gray fur neck piece. The henna note was repeated in the facing of her blue charmeuse sailor hat and in the fancy feather placed about the crown. She wore a bouquet of violets and sweetheart roses. Mr. Coolidge's father, John Coolidge, was with them, and also Mr. and Mrs. W.

CABINE BACKS SIMONS' OFFER

Expert Advisers Hold That No
Other Course Is Safe for Germany.

REVOLT IS CALLED BY GERMAN COMMUNISTS

BERLIN, March 5.—The German communist party yesterday made the ultimatum delivered by the allies to the German delegation in London the occasion for a revolutionary proclamation.
The German workmen are called on to overthrow the Government, erect a Soviet State and effect a political and economic alliance with Russia.
The communists announce that demonstrations will be held tomorrow.

PARIS, March 5.—A French squadron of warships from the Mediterranean fleet arrived at Toulon today and began coaling. It will be held in readiness for instant service.

By FRANK E. MASON.
International News Service.

BERLIN, March 5.—The German cabinet is still defying the allies on indemnity, according to the best information obtainable today.

Following a long session of the ministry yesterday, when opinions were heard from experts, it was reported today that the opinion was expressed that "it would be more preferable for the French to carry out their threats than for the Germans to sign."

CABINET TO BACK SIMONS.
Some members of the cabinet said that they were hopeful that the negotiations would not be broken off entirely.

The Cabinet has made it fairly evident that it will back up Foreign Minister Simons to the limit in his reply to Premier Lloyd George.

The experts who have been advising the Cabinet are understood to have taken a pessimistic position. They chase the other course open. Most of these experts are said to hold the opinion that of the two evils, the penalties are preferable to the Paris indemnity decision.

Many Germans are convinced that France will extend her occupation of German territory in any event, whether Germany meets the allied indemnity terms or not; "consequently signing the conditions would only be postponing the inevitable."

TUMULT IN REICHSSTAG.
The gravest situation since the war is confronting Germany. An incident revealing the temper of the nation occurred in the Reichstag during debate on President Ebert's message concerning indemnity.

Adolph Hoffmann, a Communist, attempted to speak, and it was evident that he was about to make an attack upon government policy. The members broke into a shout of: "Go to France, where you belong, you traitor!"

The tumult lasted for some time.

SPECIALIST TO TREAT PRINCESS ANATASIA

PARIS, March 5.—A specialist has arrived in Athens on a Greek destroyer to treat Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, who is ill, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens today.

The condition of Princess Anastasia is said to be critical. She is suffering from abdominal complaint. Her pulse last night was 110.

LOSES BETROTHAL RING IN SACK OF DOUGHNUTS

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 5.—Mrs. Goffe Corwick, clerk in a bakery at Conellville, is heartbroken over the loss of her diamond engagement ring. In filling an order for doughnuts the ring fell into one of the sacks and was carried from the establishment. She fears the sack has been thrown away with the ring still in it.

ASST. SEC. BALL TO STAY IN AGRICULTURE DEPT.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture E. D. Ball will be re-appointed to that office, the White House announced today.

DANGER SIGNALS

Headache, colds, nausea, blues, mental depression—these are not only painful and annoying, but they are danger signals.

A great majority of these passing illnesses are due to self-poisoning resulting from constipation. Unless you keep your system free from decaying food waste, you start continuous poisoning inside. Ultimately Bright's disease, rheumatism, gout, diabetes, pernicious anemia, and the like, may result.

Pills, castor oil, laxative waters and salts only force and irritate the bowels, and make constipation a habit. Nujol works on an entirely new principle.

Instead of forcing or irritating the system, it simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestines, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.

Nujol thus prevents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world. Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol Trade Mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 35 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."
